

This comment is directed against the Consumer Bankers Association Attempt to impose the federal "established business relationship" exemption on Indiana consumers. We are very happy with the current Indiana law that keeps these unwanted telephone calls from our homes. Since we pay a monthly fee for our telephone we should not be forced to entertain calls that we do not want from businesses. If we need to do business with any entity we have a previous relationship with then we will make the call to them. Please abide by our wishes that we do not want these calls to our homes from the Consumer Bankers Association or any other association.

Thanks you,
Bradford E. Thomas
